Project Description:

Beers Construction Company provides a complete range of construction and construction related services to clients in the Southeastern United States. The Corporate Services Group was recently formed to expand the company's presence from traditional markets such as commercial and public sector construction into the emerging markets of Program and Facility Management.

Recognizing the necessity for enhanced management skills, Beers Corporate Services retained S & R Associates, Inc. to develop and deliver the first Phase of its new training curriculum. S & R used a combination of Adult Learning Techniques, including facilitation, lectures, and group exercises, to shift participant focus from construction management to the much more complex scenario of Program/Project Management. Through numerous case activities, the students learned how to develop and control the scope and schedule baselines by studying, and then applying, the following concepts:

- Project Life Cycle Analysis
- Project Management Roles and Responsibilities
- Risk Analysis and Management
- Scope Definition and Management
- Environmental Planning
- Basic Scheduling Tools and Techniques
- Advanced Scheduling Tools and Techniques
- Monitoring, Managing, Controlling the Baseline
